

My Health My Data

The My Health My Data Act is the first privacy focused law in the country to protect personal health data that falls outside of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, or HIPAA. The Act was developed to protect a consumer's sensitive health data from being collected and shared without that consumer's consent, with a specific focus on advancing technologies and information sharing on the internet.

Data we collect:

We value your privacy greatly. We do not ask for any of your personal information on our website. Your healthcare information is collected in office in order to provide healthcare services, and this information is protected under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA).

General data on you such as IP address, cookie ID, device identifier, etc. are regularly collected by web browsers and websites such as this.

Cookies

A cookie is a small piece of data sent from a website and stored on your device's hard disk by your browser. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser settings to decline cookies if you prefer. If you choose to decline cookies, the website may not work fully as intended.

What we do with your data:

We do not sell, trade, or lease your personal identifiable information to third parties. Healthcare information given to us in office stays in the office other than for external backups, including encrypted data sent through ChiroTouch notes system, and if we are billing your insurance company which goes through a clearing house (Office Ally). In addition, information may be transferred for referral purposes to another health care provider, or if patient specifically requests records to be sent to a specific third party (lawyers, etc.).

Your rights:

You may request a copy of your records. Consumers have the right to request entities delete their consumer health data, which will be done unless it contradicts other regulations set by the department of health and other government agencies.

Changes to this statement:

We will occasionally update this statement to reflect the needs of our patients as well as changing technologies and rules/regulations.
